Desoxyn VS Adderall

Desoxyn is a prescription medication used for the treatment of ADHD in a person. It contains methamphetamine, which further gets converted into amphetamine in a person's body. While Adderall is a mixture of four amphetamine and dextroamphetamine salts.

Phentermine Vs Adderall

These two prescription drugs are prescribed for different purposes. Medical experts recommend phentermine for weight loss while it is usually used to treat ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder).

Sometimes, it can be prescribed as a weight loss aid but most of the time, medical experts recommend it to have an ADHD.

Sandoz Adderall

Sandoz is a Canadian version of Adderall. It contains the same components as the main Adderall. It has four amphetamine salts such as dextroamphetamine and amphetamine. Furthermore, it is a prescription medication to treat ADHD (Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder) that one must only take when the doctor prescribes it for you.

Wellbutrin Vs Adderall

If we see the comparison between wellbutrin vs Adderall, bupropion(wellbutrin) is an antidepressant which is sometimes used as the off-label treatment to treat the symptoms of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). It is an approved treatment to treat depression, seasonal affective disorder to help people to quit smoking. Furthermore, it works by blocking norepinephrine and dopamine from being reabsorbed into the human's brain. Additionally, it increases the level of these neurotransmitters that can help boost mood and increase other symptoms of ADHD.

Side Effects of Such Stimulants:

These stimulants can cause adverse and severe side effects. Additionally, it can cause:

- Weight loss
- Rapid or Uneven Heartbeats
- Insomnia
- Increased Blood Pressure
- Lightheadedness
- Muscle Twitches
- Tremors
- Hallucinations
- Headaches
- Dizziness
- Constipation
- Changes in mental state

- Diarrhea
